Lift Servicing-The Inside Story

1. A risk you may create

A lift is not a standardised product. Every lift is customised according to a building's specifications. Johnson Lift is proud to provide this service.

Therefore from lift to lift components will vary - in strength, size, etc. Only Johnson maintains a record of this. Knowledge that is vital when servicing any Johnson lift.

If you let an outside agency do the servicing, they will do so without the knowledge of these details, which is downright dangerous.

2. Foreign relations - play it safe

Crucial electrical components are sourced by Johnson Lift from leading manufacturers worldwide.

Johnson Lifts maintains these components in stock, so you can avoid experience delays in case they require replacement.

These components are not available off-the-shelf. Replacing them with duplicates, as other service outfits are likely to do, will lead to poor performance.

For instance, your electricity bill could shoot up. Your lift will become more prone to breakdowns.

3. Risky exchange game

In fact outside party service outfits are known to swap parts between different lifts that they are contracted to service. This is clearly a risky exchange game.

More so because the part they remove is invariably the best component put in to takeover if the first were to fail.

4. What goes down will always come up

More often than not we are called back a year or so after another outfit has taken over.

Only to find that the lifts working components are wrecked due to above treatment.

So we first have to give a quotation to bring it to normal before we can retake the servicing contract.

We invariably find the cost incurred in this more than negates the money saved on service in the previous year/s.

So low costs today mean higher costs tomorrow.

5. Leaders are not made overnight

We have a hard-earned reputation to protect.

Johnson Lifts is No 1 in India.

So we pay more attention to servicing our lifts.

A Johnson serviceman of today is many times better than a Johnson serviceman of yesterday.

For we constantly upgrade their skills - by training them in new diagnostic tools as well as updating their engineering knowledge to modernize our lifts.

No other servicing outfit can match our dedication.
